SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

This is "Saturday Night," and my assistant, "The Morning After the Night Before." The prophecy you are about to read is true, only the page should be turned to protect the eyes.

The date is May 11, 1975. The chief assigned us to a 313 raid on Seek's Pool Hall. We dashed in to find a small mob and a large riot. After investigating the facts, we found it was the Class of '54 reunion. We started to gather all the facts and complete the case.

First we interviewed a small group by the first billiard table. Here we found Senator Darlene Nagel and Governor Jim Stugart airing their political views on the appointment of Neil Stevens as ambassador to East Texas. Also engaged in this delightful conversation was cousin Larry Stugart, now the well-known author of children's nursery rhymes.

To our right stood three heavily bearded men. Upon further observation, we discovered under all the brush "Hot Lips" Larry Rosentreter, home from the hills of Alaska; "Smooch" Pearcy, the great romanticist whose latest picture is "All About Love." The third member was Professor Dave Luck, famous for his scientific achievements. Dave's first interest in science appeared in the eighth grade when he played the leading part in the play, "Splitting the Atom."

Over at the refreshment table stood some of WHS's athletes. Upon investigating the facts we found "Sheepherdin' Louie," alias Jay Waitman; Larry Adams, who sneaked out of the house leaving his little woman at home with their twelve kids and the dirty dishes; Dex Howe, the president of "Otis Dexter Howe III's Fancy Fertilizer Inc.," the by-product of "Herdin' Louie's" herd; Tony Weber, who is now composing another moving operetta, "Custard's Last Stand." Hidden by the tall boys stood short Tim Mylet, the mail carrier of West Texas. They were all standing quietly listening to boastful Ed Chase telling of his farm where he raises midget guppies.

On the south wall we noticed the new family sized TV screen, 12 feet 3 inches by 17 feet 5 inches. A commercial came on and we were surprised to see Mary Jo Ballard and Frances Feighny Shepard advertising Baker's Beautiful Bath Perfume, which is manufactured by a former member of the class, John F. "Red" Baker. After the short a news reel was shown. We heard a long talk by the Kentucky Derby winner, Jim Black, who rode No News to a new record. They say Jim won over $1,000,000 riding an old milk wagon nag. Next over the air was Ella Mae Parsons and her Romeo Ramblers coming from Nashville, Tennessee. Ella Mae's program is sponsored by Donna Brooks' sensational new product, Chew Chew, the chewing tobacco for women.

Television isn't quite the same as it was when we were kids due to Lowell Schneider's inventing 3D technicolored television, ten years ago. Lowell also sponsors three TV shows: "Esther's Easy Edibles," Esther Beisner's cooking program, and "Doc" Corman's children's program, "Time and Rhyme with Mama Goose."

We saw a very distinguished looking gent standing by the pool tables. We recognized him to be none other than Larry Miskimins, the famous snooker shark. He told us that his twin, Lois, was married and living in the Ozarks raising kids. Talking to Larry, were two women, Joann Walter and Donna Rae Stumbough. These ladies own a fabulous beauty salon for men in New York. They claim to have a hair tonic that will grow hair on a peanut.

We noticed Janet Rhoades wearing her Marcian outfit. Janet is a well-known jet pilot; her co-pilot is Loretta Whinery. These two have made millions flying people to Mars and to the moon. Promoting these trips is Viola Montoya, the jet plane manufacturist.

One of the topics of discussion was about the election next fall. Arleene O'Bryan is trying for reelection to the Presidency of the U. S. Arleene's first man in the U. S. is Cuzin Melvin Wright. The Municiple elections are next fall, also. Running for Mayor of Uva is Norma Martins. Norma will undoubtedly get the nature-loving people's votes; as she has a home for wingless butterflies and blind ants. Her opponent, Shirley Delozier, will probably obtain the businessmen's votes as she has built up quite a business selling her electric pogo sticks, that jump automatically.

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

We saw the McGuire boys, Jim and Leonard. These boys have just found a new vein of uranium in South Texas. They're going to auction it off to the highest bidder. Lila Davis, the sheriff of South Texas, said she and her deputy, Vic Sommers, were having quite a time controlling the "Uranium Rush of 75."

The entertainment of the evening started off with a bang. First on the program was the "Singing Sals." This was a western quartet made up of tenors, Dixie Shelton and Betty Graves; baritone, Squeaky Cancino; and bass Jodie Turney. These gals bare company starring in a new western movie with singing star, Bob "Tex" Davis. Next on the program was Charlotte Edminston and Donna Jo Collins. They entertained us with a couple of musical numbers. Charlotte plays the violin and Donna Jo the mouth harp. Their duet is quite a success.

Next to appear on the program was the new sensational dancing team—Mary Ann and Rog—Of course we all recognized Roger Williams and Mary Ann Steeley, but Mary Ann had grown at least ten inches. Then we noticed she was wearing a pair of elevated shoes by Vogt. Darrel is a Manufacturer of women's elevator shoes.

There was a twenty minute break in the program while "Bullock's Swing Notes" set up the stage and warmed up. We wandered around looking for a few more facts when we saw Ethel McCallum and Velma Lewis involved in deep conversation. It seems these two are partners in the manufacturing of lunch meats. They're the only two manufacturers of lunch meats to be awarded the Lousy Housekeeping Seal of Rejection.

We thought we had our case almost completed, still it seemed as if we had missed something. Suddenly we heard a lot of commotion and laughter in one corner. We went over to find most of Hohnholt's crew, this is what we'd missed. Upon investigating this is what we found: Betty Jane Fish, who has revolutionized the industry of canopeners by perfecting a zipper in the tops of cans was the center of attraction. It seems she was telling Bud Hohnholt, now bartender of Uva and also manufacturer of dentless cars for high school kids, about her new noiseless beer cans.

Non-believing, but listening we find Tuff Phillippi clutching his famous product, "Keg of Mom" which is a by-product of "Can of Pop." Tuffy has just recently finished a course of love techniques under Clark Gable. Attired in dark clothing and dark glasses we see Doris Mitchell, who has just perfected her invention of flash-lights for blind people, telling Arnie Hanks of her home for broken-down cowboys. Arnie had just finished telling Doris of his special shoulder holster for police dogs. Now another nationally known figure, Bob Swan, comes to the center of the group. Bob manufactures leak-proof sheep wagons, but before he could tell us anything about them in stomped Virgie Tyree, world renowned rodeo contractor. From the top of her new purple hat to her 16 in. top green and yellow boots, we could see that Madison Square Garden had been profitable this year.

Over in the far corner we found, among the cob webs and bright lights, none other than Silent Sid talking to Lauretta Howe and Dick Marker. Laurie is the manufacturer of rip-proof-bounce-proof-blister-proof-levis. She also designs Tee Texas Tiddlewinker's western shirts. Dick is in South Africa teaching the Amazons the great game of ping pong. His team is becoming quite famous.

We went over by the refreshment table in hopes of finding something cool and soothing to drink. We found Carol Perkins giving away samples of her famous drink, "Perk's Perk-up Pop."

Couples were crowding the dance floor, dancing to the rhythm of Don Bullock's band. It was then we noticed the famous flute soloist Toots Fresorger. When Toots isn't playing in concert halls she plays in Bullock's band. Due to her flute, his band has that "different" quality. To complete the evening, the country's newest crooner, Don Lawrence, sang the old school song "On Wisconsin." Don is scheduled to appear before the Crown Prince of Lower Slobbovia sometime next week.

We now had all the facts so we put them together and completed our case.

PROCESSIONAL

SENIOR CLASS WILL

We, the Nineteen Hundred and Fifty Four Class of Wheatland High School, being of sane mind and sound body, (shut up! What do you know about it?) do hereby submit this last will and testament, being in full knowledge of the fact that this institution will, in a short time, no longer be blessed with our presence and supreme intelligence.

Bob Swan wills to the Junior Class all the desks with his name on them, all the gum under the chairs, all the screaming and yelling the teachers have done at him during the last four years, the books he has torn up, the erasers he has thrown at people, all the ink he has spilled on the floor, all the paper he has thrown away, all the fives he has received, all the good times he has had in the Senior Class, and also, to the boys who take football, his dirty sweat shirt and socks (still in the locker room).

Dexter Howe wills his sense of humor to James Watt, who needs something. Buddy Hohnholt wills the rattles in his Ford to anyone's car that might need them, to Marvin Wilhelm he leaves his ability to carry cigarettes, and to "Seek" his drinking ability.

Mary Jo Ballard leaves her journalistic ability to next year's editor. Jim Stugart solemnly leaves his old dirty socks for Herb to make perfume out of to spray the halls. Norma Martens wills her big feet to Coleen Ferguson. Viola Montoya leaves all the things she didn't learn to the Juniors so they might profit by them.

Charles Pearcy wills to any student Mr. Stratton's "twig" problems. Larry Stugart wills his acting ability to any future dramatic student who needs it very badly. Donna Stumbough wills her pretty shaped eyes to Beverly Williams. Lila Davis leaves a certain young man in the care of "good old" W.H.S. for the next year?

Arleene O'Bryan wills her appreciation of beautiful neck ties to anyone who has a class under Mr. Carnes next year, also, her old, battered locker, with all its tender memories and homey, cluttered atmosphere to Liz Fish.

Tuffy Phillippi leaves his ability to stay out of trouble to Dean Allison, a fifth to Fredrick, and also his ability to stay in school to "Shane" Marshall. Joann Walter wills her beautiful brown eyes to Darlene Moore, whose eyes are horrible. Betty Graves leaves her legs to Claudette Goertz.

Frances Feighny wills number 4 locker, mirror included, to anyone who likes their locker door open all the time. Arnie Hanks leaves his ability to like big oranges to Miss Seekins. Velma Lewis leaves her ability to stay broke to anyone who has the problems of too much money.

Don Bullock and Mary Alice Fresorger aren't leaving anything. They are taking tender memories with them together.

Red Baker leaves any ability that he may have to anyone who can put it to use for good or bad. Larry Rosentreter wills his ability of making stills and home brew to Miss Seekins, who will surely need it in her future "activities." Dixie Shelton wills her ability to be heard and not seen to Dorothy Grant. Shirley Delozier leaves her shorthand ability to Helen Jessen who needs it badly.

Larry Miskimins wills his FFA membership to some of the better sophomore girls. Larry

SENIOR CLASS WILL

Adams bequeaths his great ability to get along with all the W.H.S. teachers and never be sent to the office to all junior boys. Darlene Nagel wills her ability to be quiet to Marietta Bromly, who professes no such talent. Ethel McCallum wills her ability to snore in speech class to anyone who needs it.

Leonard McGuire wills his study hall seat to some unfortunate sophomore. Tim Mylet wills everything he has that is still standing to anyone who can tear it down. Jim McGuire wills his history grades to any lucky person who will have them. Mary Ann Steeley wills her height to Jim Graves, heaven only knows, he needs it.

Dave Luck wills his football ability to Bob Shepard so he can play Dave's position better. Lauretta Howe leaves Steve Starr to the girls' wrestling squad and also Mr. Hatcher to anyone who can stand to have a pass for every move made. Betty Jane Fish leaves her clean sense of humor to Bob Shepard, who certainly needs one.

Carol Perkins wills all the swell times she has had in W.H.S. to those coming up. Donna Jo Collins wills her tall willowy stature to Margaret Geringer, who can use it. Jay Waitman bestows his forgetfulness to anyone who might run into it. Dick Marker leaves his ability to obtain ping pong balls to "Seek," who keeps losing them and his whiskers to Gay Nell, who really likes them so much.

Loretta Whinery wills W.H.S. to anyone who wants it and Jodie Turney is just willing to get out of it. Charlotte Edmiston wills her biology ability to Jean Saunders. Jim Black isn't going half way about things. He leaves the whole school, faculty included, to anyone who wants it. Ella May Parsons wills her school grades to anyone who wants them.

Donna Brooks leaves her ability to dash into first period class with the tardy bell on her heels to anyone who can use such a talent. Bob Davis wills to anyone who can see in the dark his job of school photographer. Janet Rhoads leaves her curly hair and good jokes to anyone who can use them.

Eddie Chase leaves his driving ability to Benny Wilson, who can really use it. Richard Corman wills Mr. Hatcher and the remaining classes his old socks and clothes. Melvin Wright feels that if he just leaves everything will be better. Darrel Vogt wills his ping pong ability to Bub Hester. Virgie Tyree bequeaths her ability to get along with the teachers to anyone who can stand the low grades.

Lois Miskimins wills her ability to flunk Typing II to Alice Beisner. Rog Williams leaves his position as tenor in the boys' quartet to William Wilson. Neil Stevens leaves his worries as the business manager of the annual and the pop stand to another slave. Doris Mitchell leaves her chaperon duties to anyone who thinks he can handle them. Lowell Schneider leaves his eraser to Dick McQuisten, who always needs one. Vic Sommers leaves his job at O. P. Skaggs to Marv W.

Esther Beisner wills her long hair to Laurel Sutherland. Virginia Cancino wills her dancing ability to Terry Ferguson. Don Lawrence leaves his horn to some one with a lot of wind. Tony Weber bestows his lovable personality to Joyce Fresorger. He thinks it will help her in the future!

Sid got cleaned.
